Study of local education system presented

CEDSS teams examine four aspects of education; recommend a number of changes

By LEN PIZZERY
Echo Editor

An educational evaluation program undertaken jointly by the Haliburton County Board of Education and the provincial education ministry has recommended a number of improvements to the local system.

The review process, known as Cooperative Evaluation and Development of School Systems, or CEDSS, took almost a year to plan and carry out. It focussed on four main areas: English from Kindergarten to Grade 13; Intermediate Mathematics; the Role of the Director of Education; and the Role of Teachers and Principals.

To gather information for the study, advisory committees appointed by the board but including parents and interested citizens, focussed on the teaching of English throughout the school system. A major finding of the internal review team was that there has been little coordination of curriculum in English throughout the system. Ministry officials agreed strongly with this finding, noting that "there is no evidence of locally developed core curriculum documents" and "little communication among the schools and among the teachers within some schools concerning core curriculum."

The internal evaluation team suggested that a curriculum committee for English should be established, public input solicited and curriculum design experts consulted. Ministry evaluators agreed with this concept, and suggested that it be carried out over a three year period.

Library and media resources were found to be inadequate by both the internal and external evaluation teams. The final report advocates that a library and media needs assessment be undertaken, that more library and media material be purchased to support the course of studies, and that a central organization be set up to order and distribute media resources among local schools.

Intermediate mathematics

In examining data gathered on the Intermediate Mathematics program in the local schools, the internal and external teams found more to disagree about. The internal team thought that there should be more frequent reporting of students' progress to parents, but Ministry representatives say the present reporting process is adequate.

The board-appointed committee suggested that seminars could be held to give parents information drafted questionnaires which were distributed to parents, teachers, students, graduates and various administrators. In all, more than 4,500 questionnaires were sent out, and approximately 80 percent of them were returned. Responses were reviewed by the committees and a series of recommendations drafted. Ministry of Education officials also evaluated the questionnaires and prepared a report of their findings. The two sides then got together to compare opinions and draft a final report which was presented to board trustees last Tuesday.

In most cases the local committees and education ministry officials were in agreement, but on some points their views differed. None of the disagreements were considered serious however.

The internal team also suggested that professional development of teachers could be enhanced by providing opportunities for teacher visitation among schools and position exchanges. This finding also found favour with Ministry representatives.

Another major finding of both groups was that there should be more effective implementation of language throughout the system. The external review team recommended that schools be encouraged to "develop and adopt a clearly stated language policy that addresses the role of language in learning."

Both groups determined that there is a need for teachers to keep "a mandatory cumulative writing file" for each student so that improvement in writing skills can be assessed from year to year.

Members of the Haliburton Rotary Club, representatives of other clubs, wives and guests gathered at Wig-A-Mog Inn last Thursday to mark the 40th anniversary of the club's founding on May 24, 1944. Many former presidents of the club were on hand for the evening. Here event organizer Gerry Dawson takes a few moments at the microphone to remind the audience of some of the club's many achievements in the last four decades.

Ronald J. Curry dies

Funeral services to be held Thursday

Ronald J. Curry, one of Haliburton's best known and most respected citizens, has died. Although his health had been failing recently, his death shortly before noon Tuesday at his home in Haliburton came as a shock to relatives and friends.

Born in 1904 in Snowdon Township, he was a life-long resident of the area. He attended public schools in Haliburton and Lindsay, and Lindsay business college. In 1921, he joined the staff of Curry Motors.

In 1939 he married Maxine Lyons. The couple had two children, Sheila (Popple) and Peter, both of whom reside in the Haliburton area.

Throughout his life the late Ron Curry took an active interest in community affairs. He was reeve of Dysart et al for nine years and Warden of the Provisional County of Haliburton in 1938. He was the first president of the Haliburton Rotary Club in 1944, and continued to play an active role in the local club. He was present last Thursday, when the club held a 40th anniversary celebration at Wig-A-Mog Inn.

Among his many accomplishments over the years, he was the first director of the Haliburton tourist association, which later became the Chamber of Commerce; past master of the local Masonic Lodge and a 33rd Degree Mason; a director of the Guild of Fine Arts; a member of the board of governors of Sir Sandford Fleming College and president of the board in 1971-72; a long time member of the local school board; and an active member of Haliburton United Church.

In 1959 he became president of Curry Motors Ltd., a position he held until 1973.

Funeral services for the late Ron Curry will be held Thursday, May 31 at 2 p.m. at Haliburton United Church.

Joint committee proposed for curlers

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

A proposal to establish a Curling and Recreation Committee to oversee the Minden Curling Club was agreed to by the members of Anson, Hindon and Minden council at their meeting last week. The committee will be comprised of five principal officers of the curling club along with two members of council and will act as a board of management for the club. This body will have the final decision in matters such as the use of curling club facilities when not in use by members. Its approval will also be required before any changes can be made to the building itself. In addition, a clause was also included in the proposed by-law which stipulates that if the curling building is sold, the club will receive a share of the market value price.

The need to establish a joint committee of councillors and club executive arose after the curling arena was assessed and deemed taxable by provincial assessors. The club, built beside the arena, is constructed on municipal property and as a result, it is classified as a municipal building. As tenants in this building, the curling club is eligible to pay municipal taxes on the property under provincial law. After receiving a 1984 tax bill, the club appealed the charges, claiming that they should not be required to pay municipal taxes.

Formation of a joint board of directors which includes elected municipal officials, but is dominated by curling club members, will enable the club to have control over the use of facilities and will also ensure that the club will no longer be taxed.

Lyle McKnight, Reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden, said council members had been on the executive of the club before at the curlers' request. McKnight also commented that he could understand the club's concern.

"The curling club has invested $100,000 in the building and they are concerned that it is on municipal property," McKnight said. It is because of this investment, he noted, that the proposed by-law states that the curling club will be reimbursed for their investment if the municipality sells the building. As it stands now, McKnight said a future council could say "let's turf them out". Without any real control over the curling rink, council could go in and use the building as it sees fit, he said. A by-law such as the one now proposed would make this more difficult to do.

Although McKnight said he is aware of other agreements between councils and tenants on municipal lands, such as returning the taxes paid by these groups in the form of a grant, he said the founding of this committee, "seemed like the legal way to go."

The by-law to establish the Curling and Recreation Committee will be enacted at the next council meeting on June 14.

Wildlife park plan approved

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has approved a plan for the development of a wildlife park on the municipal property east of the library and cultural centre and south of the arena. The proposal, which was presented at the previous council meeting, was adopted unanimously by council at their meeting last Thursday.

The proposal, subject to alterations recommended by the Parks Committee, is comprised of a three phase construction plan and includes features such as a pond for waterfowl, a boardwalk, playgrounds and a spray pool for children and a parking lot to serve these facilities. The plans were

Anson, Hindon, Minden council

At a meeting last Thursday, Anson, Hindon and Minden council considered the following matters:

Dean Elliott was present regarding the zoning status of Block A, Plan 561 and requested the issuance of a building permit for a cottage for said lot. Council decided it intends for Block A on Plan 561 to be zoned for residential use and authorized a building permit be issued to construct a cottage thereon, subject to compliance with By-law 14-67 with respect to setbacks only.

Boundary Information Accounts in the amount of $73.62 were approved for payment.

Irwin Ditz was present regarding the repairs made in 1983 to the Bethel Road in front of his property which have adversely affected his driveway. An on-site inspection of the area was arranged by the Roads Committee Chairman and a report is to be made back to council.

The clerk reported that the ad placed in the local newspaper did not bring any interested responses, therefore council agreed to appoint a sufficient number of persons to the LACAC at a later date. (Local Architectural Conservation Authority Committee).

Council adopted in principle Brian Sisson's report regarding the Development Plan for Minden Park.

Reeve McKnight declared a conflict of interest and turned the meeting over to Deputy-Reeve Pergolas.

Council accepted title to parts 1 and 2 on Plan 19R-3054 from the respective property owners on the condition that the road shall not be maintained until such time as it is brought up to suitable MTC standards and assumed into the municipal roads system.

The reeve then assumed the chair.

Henry Trociz was present regarding the crusher which operates in June within 500 feet of his property and adversely affects his resort business. Council agreed to arrange for the crusher to come as soon as possible to attempt to complete the crushing contract prior to June 15.

A letter was received from Andrew Neal requesting permission to construct a road at his expense on the original allowance for road between Lots 5 and 6, Concession 8, Township of Minden. Council agreed to do an on-site inspection of the area.

The clerk was authorized to prepare a by-law enacting that holidays being paid or taken in 1984 are deemed to be 1984 holidays and the clerk was authorized to contact the MMAH for confirmation of this proposal.

Council accepted the quotation of O.M.E. Insurance Brokers Limited to provide annual insurance coverage for the municipality at a cost of $11,768.

J.O. Jackson of the Minden Curling Club was present with a draft of the terms that the club felt should be enacted in a by-law.

Council appointed a Curling Recreation Committee comprising of two members of council and five principal officers of the Minden Curling Club and by-law 84-15 will be enacted at the next meeting of council setting out the details and responsibilities of said committee.

A resolution stating that council supports the resolution from the City of Ottawa regarding declaring the Province of Ontario officially bilingual and that a letter of support be forwarded to the proper persons, was defeated on a recorded vote. Yav: Pergolas, Kenney, Nay: Stevens, Burk, McKnight.

A motion was introduced to contribute $25 toward a gift on the occasion of J.D. Hodgson's retirement. The preceding motion was amended to an amount equal to that of Dysart Township. A nay vote was registered by Ed Pergolas.

Councillor Gary Kenney reported that the amount to be levied in 1984 to those merchants within the Business Improvement Area shall be $4,500.

The B.I.A. requested that a separate reserve fund be established so that persons making donations may claim same as a tax deduction.

By-law 84-14, a by-law to authorize payment to be made to certain members of the Planning Advisory Committee, was passed.

Nay votes were registered by Lyle McKnight and Gary Kenney.

Work approval needed

If you own waterfront property and are considering making alterations of any type to the shoreline, beach, or land under the water, there are some things you should know.

Any work in or near the water could cause serious adverse effects on fish and wildlife or on neighbouring properties.

If you have a project in mind you must first seek approval from the Ministry of Natural Resources. This does not mean that your proposal will be blocked, but rather that the MNR will have an opportunity to examine your project plans and assess the possible impact. Usually a proposal can be approved in some form, with consideration being given to mitigating any detrimental effects.

The following Provincial statutes aid us in doing our job in this regard: The Lakes and Rivers Improvement Act, The Beach Protection Act, The Game and Fish Act, The Public Lands Act.

In addition, the following Federal statutes may also be applicable: The Fisheries Act and The Navigable Waters Protection Act.

Failure to contact the Ministry of Natural Resources prior to undertaking work in or near the water could result in charges and/or costly restoration of the site.

Minden may appoint LACAC committee

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Two advertisements placed by Anson, Hindon and Minden council for volunteers to sit on a Local Architectural Conservancy Advisory Committee, or LACAC, have failed to draw a response from local residents, councillors were told at a meeting last week.

LACACs, which operate under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Heritage Act of 1974, have the power to designate certain properties for conservation which are found to be of architectural significance or that have a heritage value. Under the guidelines of the provincial act, local committees are to review their community and make recommendations concerning local heritage properties. A formal report, made in conjunction with the owner of the property, is then drawn up and presented to council, who must then decide on the importance of the property in question. When a decision has been made, it must then be advertised. If there are no objections from the public, a by-law declaring the property as a heritage property is passed and this is also advertised and placed on the deed to the land.

Once a property is declared architecturally significant, or of heritage value, no major alterations can be made to the exterior of the property without the agreement of the committee and council. Once a property is designated under the program, its owner also qualifies for grants of up to $2,000 per year to carry out restoration of architectural features which help to make the building of special interest.

At present, there are 150 LACACs across Ontario and 1,800 individual properties that have been designated by them. In addition, some local committees also conduct walking tours of the areas and hold information classes.

Since no volunteers have been found for the LACAC planned for Anson, Hindon and Minden, councillors decided to appoint members to the new committee. A list of possible members will be considered by council at a later meeting.

Minden planning committee paid for attending meetings

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Members of the Planning Advisory Committee of Anson, Hindon and Minden will be paid for regular committee meetings held during the day. A resolution passed by council at their May 24 meeting, calls for $25 to be paid to those appointed to the committee in compensation for time taken from their jobs. Municipal employees are excluded from the new measure, which it is estimated will cost the municipality $125 per month.

During debate on the proposal, councillor Gary Kenney voiced concern over the practice of extending the payment for time spent in committee to members of council. Kenney said he agreed with the payment of those appointed to the committee, but was opposed to providing compensation for elected members of council who sit on the Planning Advisory Committee. Committee meetings are "part of the office," said Kenney. "We knew, or should have known, what we were getting into when we took office," he said.

Councillor Pat Burk said if meetings were held at night, the matter would be a "whole different ball of wax," but added that since the Planning Advisory Committee meets during the day its members are taken away from their jobs. Burk said Kenney was "trying to split hairs" in his attempt to differentiate between elected and appointed members of the committee.

Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas agreed that council members should be compensated, and noted that the Planning Advisory Committee is different from other committees because of the length of its meetings. The amount of business which the committee must deal with at each meeting, as well as the need to travel to property under discussion for on-site inspections, were given as reasons why the meetings of the committee could not take place during the evening.

Reeve Lyle McKnight asked if it was necessary to hold all the meetings of the advisory body during the day. McKnight suggested that matters that require a site inspection be dealt with in day meetings and that the remaining business be handled in night sessions. McKnight also said that the committee might be spending too much time on each item and suggested that the committee "speed things up" in order to accommodate night sessions.

"There's a problem with looking at property, no doubt about it," he said.

The proposal, which had been discussed at the previous council meeting but had not been voted on due to the absence of Councillor Kenney, was carried by council with McKnight and Kenney opposing the motion.

Idea of bilingual Ontario argued at Minden council

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

A motion to support a resolution from Ottawa city council that Ontario officially be declared a bilingual province was defeated by Anson, Hindon and Minden council last Thursday night. The motion, initiated by a letter from Ottawa city council, asking for support, was discussed by councillors lightly at first, but soon developed into the subject of more serious debate.

"It is not frivolous to pressure (Premier Bill) Davis to officially acknowledge what he is doing in fact," councillor Gary Kenney said. "It does you no harm to support something that is in the best interest of Canada, even if it is the cause of a few jokes," he added.

Councillor Dave Stevens disagreed with Kenney, however, pointing out that there are many other languages in Canada besides French and English. Stevens questioned the special status given to French in Canada as well as the need to pass a resolution. "Ottawa is all French anyway," he said.

Councillor Pat Burk agreed with Stevens. "I don't see why you have to make such an issue out of the thing. I don't see why you have to declare the province as bilingual," she said.

Although Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas said he defended Burk's right to be wrong, he went on to say that he did feel the issue deserved attention. Pergolas criticized Stevens' challenge to French's special status, pointing out that as one of the country's two founding languages, it deserved this privilege. "If the federal government recognizes two official languages, why don't the provinces?" he asked.

Reeve Lyle McKnight also criticized official bilingualism along with Stevens and Burk. McKnight described bilingualism as something that the federal government is trying to force on the people of Canada and compared it to the conversion to the metric system in terms of cost to the Canadian taxpayer.

"The federal government is controlled by the province of Quebec," he said, and added that "the French in Ontario have more rights than the English in Quebec." The federal government should spend time making Quebec bilingual, he suggested.

The motion, forwarded by Kenney and seconded by Pergolas, was defeated, with Stevens, Burk and McKnight opposing it.

about how they could help youngsters with mathematics homework. On this point, too, the Ministry team disagreed, noting that it is the teachers' responsibility to help students who are having difficulty with the subject. Education parents so that they could provide "meaningful help" to their youngsters would be "very time consuming and expensive" the external team stated.

The use of calculators was a concern that surfaced in the evaluation process. Both sides agreed that calculators should be permitted from time to time in Grades 9 and 10, but there was no agreement about their use in Grades 7 and 8. It was felt that when calculators are permitted, a class set should be available for students' use.

Both evaluation teams agreed that workshops for teachers should be organized covering topics that are "generally troublesome to teach."

The external reviewers also suggested that a mathematics advisory committee be established to "deal with common concerns in mathematics and to provide a communications network for mathematics teachers."

Role of the Director

The board's chief administrative officer also came under scrutiny during the CEDSS study. In general, J. Douglas Hodgson, who is retiring as director of education in June, was praised for his contribution to the local educational system, and for his accessibility both to parents and teaching staff.

It was felt by both evaluation teams, however, that more emphasis could be placed on improving communications between the board, the director, principals, teachers and the general public. The external team noted a number of ideas on how this could be accomplished, including newsletters, information nights, newspaper columns, attendance by the director at staff meetings, speeches to community groups, and more frequent attendance by the director at school functions.

A second finding of the study

Walk for Wells goes Saturday

Final preparations are being completed this week for the first ever Walk for Wells in Haliburton County. The 33 kilometre (20 mile) walk has been organized by a local committee, and will raise funds to help provide water for residents of impoverished rural India.

Registration for the walk will begin at 7 a.m. at Head Lake in Haliburton. Walkers will travel down County Road 1 to Lochlin, along the church road to Ingoldsby, then back to Haliburton along County Road 18 (South Kashagawigamog Road). Organizers anticipate that it will take between seven and eight hours to complete the distance at a leisurely pace.

Interest in the walk has been growing in recent weeks, and a substantial number of walkers are expected to be on hand for the event. Individuals and groups from outlying areas also have pledged to take part, organizers say.

Area MP Bill Scott and MPP John Eakins will cover at least part of the route, and hockey star Bernie Nicholls of West Guilford, a member of the Los Angeles Kings, also has said he will take part.

A number of check points will be set up along the route with free soft drinks and oranges available for participants. Transportation will be available for people who are unable to finish the entire distance.

Pledge sheets for the walk are available at Bowes and Cocks in Minden, Halco Audio Visual in Haliburton, schools, churches, and through committee members.

teams was that the role of the director should be to "develop a degree of consistency in curriculum and education philosophy throughout the school system without sacrificing the benefits of a substantial degree of autonomy in the individual schools."

As well, the two groups felt present staff members should be utilized to "develop curriculum and assist in its implementation." Ministry representatives concluded that the board should consider creating a new administrative position of curriculum supervisor to assist the director in co-ordinating subject materials, special education regulations, and staff professional development.

The Ministry team also noted that the director's job description should include the fact that he or she must be responsible for evaluating principals within the school system.

Role of the teacher/principal

A total of 10 recommendations resulted from the evaluation process undertaken to consider the role of teachers and principals within the Haliburton County Board's jurisdiction. In general both teams were in agreement with the findings.

Among the major recommendations are that there be more workshops to encourage varied and imaginative ways of teaching and accommodating students' differences and needs; that a high priority be given to strengthening students' "self-concept"; and that a professional development day be held to investigate "more positive approaches to discipline."

Commenting on this recommendation, the Ministry evaluation team noted that "inconsistency in the management of pupils by the teachers as well as the punitive and degrading nature of discipline in certain schools is of concern to teachers, pupils and the parental community."

Both teams also agreed that a joint committee should be established to revise board policy on procedure for supervision of teachers. At the moment, according to the Ministry team, evaluation tends to be "supportive but with little emphasis on teachers' personal development and growth."

The two groups recommended as well that an effort should be made to allow teachers to exchange responsibilities and teaching duties both within the system and with other boards.

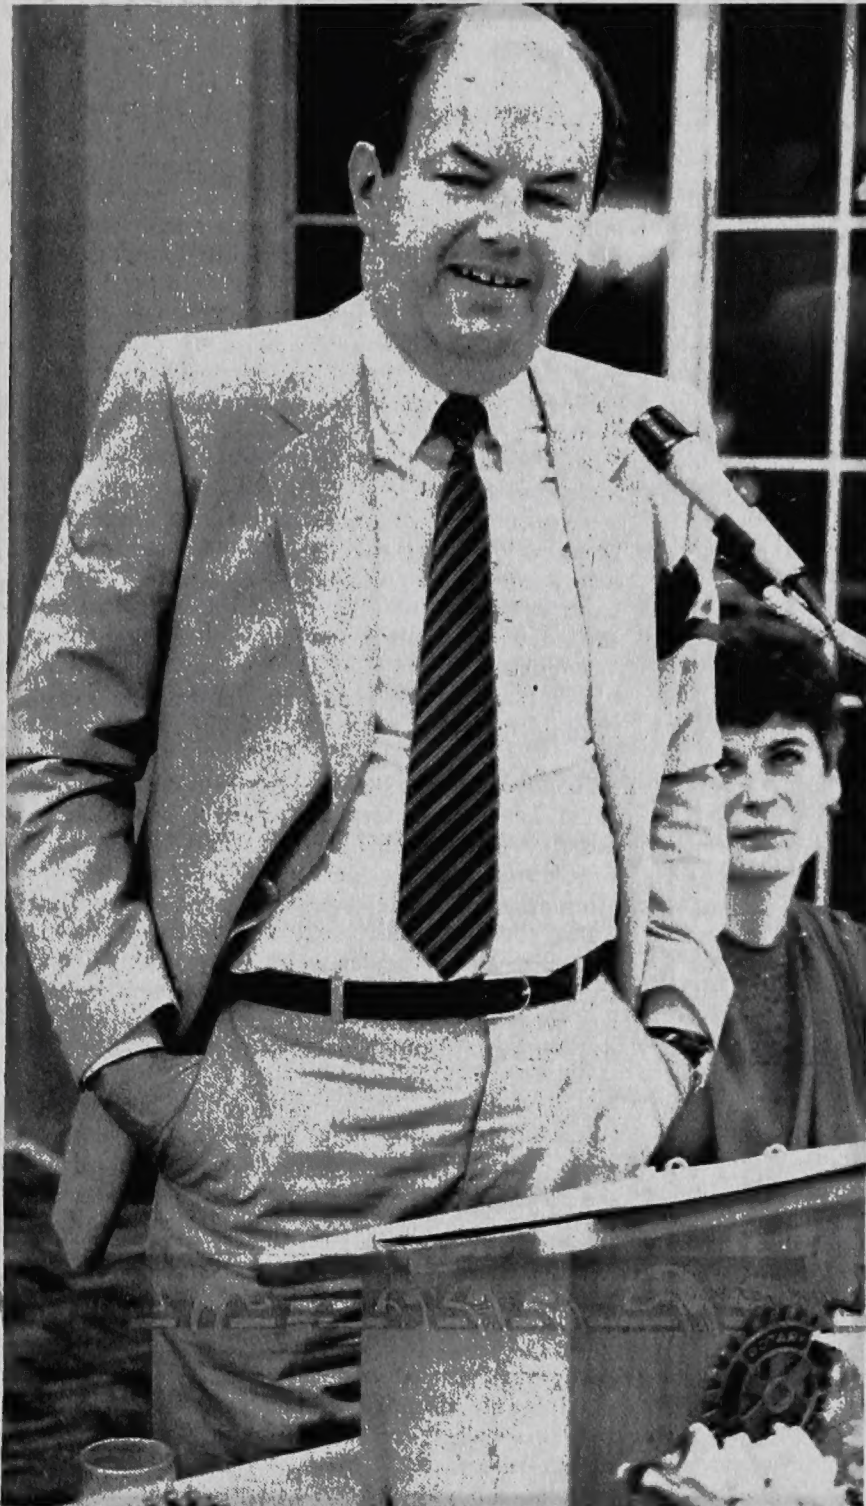

Two statements on which the evaluation teams could not reach a consensus were that the principal of each school present a report to the board on teachers' feelings about the physical environment of the school, and that courses be reviewed to ensure that the system reflects what parents think is important. On these points the external team was cautious, noting that the schools appear to be in good condition, and that it did not sample enough parents to determine if they are happy with course content, although teachers are confident that ministry guidelines and students' needs are being met.

The teams agreed that more emphasis should be placed on guidance, particularly in the secondary school, so that students' course selection can be monitored.

In concluding their report, the ministry evaluation team noted that the board "might wish to investigate" the possibility of enlarging the library at the secondary school and providing more resource materials in the facility to increase students' use of it.

Trustees will study the CEDSS document over the next few months, and if changes are forthcoming as a result of the findings, they could be implemented as early as next fall.

John Spragge, program director of CFRB radio in Toronto was the guest speaker at the 40th anniversary celebration of the Haliburton Rotary Club last Thursday evening at Wig-A-Mog Inn. Spragge kept the audience entertained with a masterful combination of wit and seriousness.

These four members of Haliburton's Girl Guides have something to be proud of. Alison Sisson, on the right, has earned the all-round cord, the highest honour in the Guiding movement. Angela Smith,

Snowmobilers are fined on trespassing charges

Four men have been fined $103 each in provincial court on charges of trespassing at Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve.

The charges stem from two separate incidents last winter in which Reserve employees discovered people riding snowmobiles on the reserve's private trails without permits.

Minimum fine for the offense is $50, but Justice of the Peace Dean

Elliot, who presided at a provincial court session Thursday, imposed a larger penalty.

The charges were laid under Section 2 of the Trespass to Property Act.

The four men were the only people charged with trespassing in the Reserve over the past winter, although a number of other snowmobilers were warned by patrollers for failing to purchase permits before riding the trails.

prepared by Brian Sisson in conjunction with the Parks Committee and also call for the dredging of an area of up to two acres to accommodate the planned pond.

Lyle McKnight, Reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden, described the proposal as a "pretty decent report", although he added that "it could stand a few changes." In addition, McKnight said it should be the Parks Committee who approve the report and have it adopted.

Councillor Pat Burk said that in projects such as this, "you never know what you will run into." Similarly, Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas said he felt council was "too ahead in the game," and recommended that council adopt the plans for the wildlife park in principle only.

Generosity

In an era of dwindling initiatives and increasing dependence on government hand outs, it is refreshing to contemplate the record of the Rotary Club of Haliburton. In its 40 years of existence, the local club has been wholly or partly responsible for initiating and financing some of the most worthwhile projects ever undertaken in the community. Since 1944, when the club received its charter, it has set impressive goals and worked long and hard to meet them. It has created a public beach in the village, built and lighted tennis courts, published a local history book, acquired and maintained a historic steam locomotive, developed Sam Slick Park at the western entrance of the village, bought the Reid property for a pioneer museum and later backed the development of a new museum facility in Glebe Park, sponsored summer and winter carnivals, contributed substantial sums for a handicapped children's treatment centre in Peterborough, organized and sponsored the local Snowarama ride for the Easter Seal Society, donated canoes and a pontoon boat to Illahee Northwoods Camp, and been involved in many other major and minor community projects.

These are the most obvious examples of the club's commitment to the local community. But there is a broader sense of community as well, and it is well understood by the local Rotary Club. Over the years, they have donated to many projects aimed at people outside the local area, including projects in Third World countries like India and the Dominican Republic. The club's generosity has also touched the lives of many local people with special needs. Assistance has been provided to buy special equipment for youngsters and adults with various handicaps. In the days before universal medicare, the club helped meet the cost of specialized treatment for local youngsters.

The annual Christmas party, now a joint project with the Haliburton Legion, is a highlight of the season for many local children. In a less public project, the club also provides money for Christmas baskets which are distributed to needy local families.

All these projects, and scores of others that the club has undertaken in the past four decades, are evidence that the Rotary motto of service before self has been taken to heart.

Now entering its 41st year, the Haliburton Rotary Club continues to grow, and to dedicate itself to the community's best interests. May it continue to thrive in the decades to come.

Action

Last Tuesday night, the Haliburton County Board of Education received one of the most important documents that has ever been placed in trustees hands. The final report of a Cooperative Evaluation and Development of School Systems project contains a number of suggestions on how the local school system can be improved. Although the document is carefully positive in most respects, a look between the lines suggests that changes are needed in a number of areas.

Board members will have several months in which to digest the CEDSS report. The findings should lead trustees to ask some pertinent questions and seek answers. Trustees must then be prepared to ensure the recommended changes are brought about. That may mean committing extra funds for educational materials and facilities, and it may mean adopting policies which will not be popular with everyone in the school system. Either way, some of the CEDSS document's recommendations must be acted upon if the year long exercise that brought it about is to be meaningful.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

It is quite encouraging to note the very favourable response to the Walk For Wells. Reports indicate that many residents and visitors to this area will be involved in the walk. Almost daily a senior citizen is walking in preparation for the big one. Representatives of Federal and Provincial Governments (Bill Scott and John Eakins) and Bernie Nicholls, a member of the Los Angeles Kings hockey club have indicated they will be present for the walk, as have individuals and groups from such places as Brampton, Lindsay, Thornhill and Scugog.

After several weeks of planning, everything is prepared for Saturday, June 2, with registration starting at 7 a.m. at Rotary Park in Haliburton. Check-points will be well-staffed; C.B. radio car operators will monitor the route and walkers who decide to discontinue will be provided with transportation if necessary. Free pop and oranges will be available at certain check-points. Basic medical supplies and toilet facilities will be enroute and the walk route will be well marked.

To ensure that the Walk For Wells goes smoothly and safely, walkers should note the following considerations:

- Walk always on the shoulder of the road, facing on-coming traffic.
- Motorists are advised to drive with extreme caution when travelling on the walk route.
- Walkers must respect the wishes of those monitoring the walk.
- Make certain to follow the signs along the route.
- Aim to finish the route within 7 - 8 hours or discontinue when feeling exhausted.
- Remember to have your walk form (be sure not to lose it!) checked at each check-point.
- Wear shoes and clothes with which you are familiar and comfortable.
- Do not litter the route - leave garbage at a check-point.
- Obtain a receipt for any money which you turned in on the day of the walk, or afterwards.

There is still plenty of time to enter the Walk For Wells. Pick up your sponsorship forms at Bowes and Cocks, Minden, Radio Shack, Haliburton, schools, churches, or from a Walk Committee member. Forms will also be available on the morning of the walk. In order not to miss out in this big event, and to show your concern for those who are desperately needing pure drinking water, consider sponsoring yourself if you are in need of a sponsor.

See you in the walk!

Robert Dennys
Chairman, Walk For Wells Committee

To The Editor:

The Gala Gananoque Heritage Days Festival Committee of Gananoque, Ontario, is seeking old friends of the town and former residents, to specifically invite them to return and share with us the mammoth celebrations we plan this June to observe Ontario's Bicentennial and the town's own heritage. This invitation applies to new friends as well.

To create a celebration of some size and scope, the Festival Committee has set aside three different weekends in which visitors and residents alike can kick up their heels and enjoy themselves. The first weekend, June 15 through 17, has the theme of a Town and Country Weekend while the second weekend, June 22 through 24, is entitled Festival of Friends. The third weekend, called Salute the St. Lawrence, will focus on the St. Lawrence River and the fun it provides to the people who live in or visit this area.

The second weekend in particular has been deemed as a homecoming weekend. It is a time when we would welcome former residents and new friends to the Gateway to the Thousand Islands. This weekend, June 22 through 24, will feature a giant Indian Powwow, historical exhibits and re-enactments, as well as other events that focus on friendship and fun.

We would welcome anyone to attend. Better yet, people can consider themselves welcome at all three weekends. The first weekend features a three-day bluegrass and country music festival starring Tommy Hunter, Sylvia Tyson, Family Brown and J.D. Crowe and New South. The third weekend will feature an estimated 1,000 boats in a giant davalcade throughout the islands.

Further information can be obtained from the Gananoque Chamber of Commerce, 2 King Street East, K7G 1E6. Telephone is (613) 382-3250.

Yours sincerely,
Barry Grills,
Publicity Chairman

Feir Play

Creighton Feir

Congratulations are in order this week to the Rotary Club of Haliburton who celebrated their 40th anniversary last Thursday evening. Here is a club that has served this community and surrounding area well over those many years and our hats are off to those members up through the years who have put service before self. I couldn't help but think, as I was sitting there during the 40th anniversary ceremonies held at Wig-A-Mog last Thursday, of all those during the past 40 years, not only past presidents but also all the hundreds of members who have belonged to the club and who have contributed in one way or the other to make this one of the finest and strongest Rotary Clubs in Ontario. During the evening my thoughts went back to all of those dedicated men whom I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with in Rotary and who have passed away up through the years. When it comes to Rotary and when you come to look back our thoughts turn to men such as Jack and Mervyn Robertson, Carl Hussey, Harold Black, Frank Hodgson, Frank McIntyre, Ben Weese and all of the others who were great Rotarians right to the end. I hate the thoughts of giving out my age but when I look back I can remember playing in the local town band when the first Haliburton Rotary Parade came down the main street just 40 years ago now. We must all agree that Haliburton has been a better place to live because the Rotarians up through the years have cared about the community.

Each year at the Spring Fling which is held at Head Lake Park among the main attractions, possibly outside the fireworks display, is the watercross when a person on a snowmobile attempts to cross Head Lake skimming along the water. This year as usual a very large crowd gathered along the lakeshore to see this feat. Unfortunately this year the driver was well on his way when the windy conditions forced big waves from the lake, sinking the snowmobile. But no matter what happened everyone enjoyed it. Each year free of charge Prentice-Berry Ltd. of Minden supply the machine and driver for this show. Unfortunately this year the watercross attraction did not receive enough promotion. It's time that at least a thank you went out to the boys from Prentice-Berry for their yearly effort to this cause.

For those of you who will be taking part in the Walk For Wells this Saturday, June 2, we ask that you please get those pledge sheets filled out if you have not already done so. Let's keep in mind that this walk is for a most worthy cause as the money raised will be used for drilling wells in selected drought-plagued villages of India. Both young and old will be walking in groups and individually. If you are not going to take part in the walk please pledge your money to someone who is.

Richard (Dick) Saxby, who is a geophysicist with the Hufco Company of Houston, Texas and who is employed in Ankara, Turkey, flew to the area and visited with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Saxby last Friday at their home in Tory Hill.

The Haliburton and District Lions Club informed me that they are planning a Family Picnic at Head Lake Park at Haliburton for Sunday, June 17. They also told me that included in some of their community service work was the purchase by the club of a pair of eye glasses for a needy child in the area.

The Neighbourhood Watch program is really catching on in Haliburton and Minden and as you visit homes in both villages you will notice that many of the homes have the Premises Protected Neighbourhood Watch stickers on their front and back doors. We are glad to report that the program is not only working here but in many other areas of Ontario. Take for instance the news item that appeared recently in the Toronto Star that stated that the Neighbourhood Watch program in central Etobicoke is working so well that household burglaries are down 56 percent from last year. The program has spread throughout the city so fast that organizers have asked the city for money for an additional 170 Neighbourhood Watch signs. Participants receive brochures and stickers for their windows and once 65 percent of a neighbourhood is in the program, a sign is posted to deter would-be burglars.

We have just been informed that the Haliburton Minor Softball League will start its schedule on Wednesday, June 6. We also understand that the new rule books have arrived.

We are glad to report that Pat Kennedy has returned home following a stay in the Red Cross Hospital in Haliburton. Pat unfortunately was in an accident recently when he was thrown from his tri-moto three wheeler. All his friends wish him a speedy recovery.

At a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton Bob English and Al Bull from the local Ambulance Service were the guest speakers. They told of the various emergency services available to us. The local Ambulance Service is starting a fund raising campaign for a portable heart monitor and will be looking for support from the local Rotary Club. For your information the Ambulance phone number is 457-1751.

Report from Parliament

By WILLIAM C. SCOTT, M.P.

The last couple of weeks have seen many events that effect us all in Victoria-Haliburton. Some have been positive and unfortunately some tragic.

We all lost a great inspiration and mentor with the death of Gordon Sinclair. As we are a region of Ontario that receives the CFRB signal, Gordon had a very staunch following in much of Victoria-Haliburton. Whether you agreed or disagreed with his commentaries they quickly became topics of discussion. Perhaps it was his style or his illustrious background that attracted listeners. Whatever it was it will be sadly missed. The country has lost an institution.

The House of Commons has been debating several pieces of non-controversial legislation in the last while. This has caused a lull in the House activity and an increased anticipation of an election either in August or November. There appears to be a general feeling that we should get as many bills on the Order Paper passed as possible before the House rises in June and politics takes over from administration.

A need for action appears to be filtering into the Liberal lack-of-leadership race as well. All seven of the major candidates are crossing the country denouncing government policies right and left, policies they as current or past Cabinet Ministers helped create. The latest episode has the Hon. Donald Johnston, Minister of State for Economic Development, denouncing his own department's business funding program. He was quoted in the House of Commons as saying: "I get the feeling it's just not working. I believe it has a tendency to build on economic weaknesses rather than on economic strengths."

The Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) finally struck a blow for consumers last week when it rejected Bell Canada's latest application for rate increases. They filed their request on March 28 for a six per cent increase in monthly residential and business telephone bills and a two per cent increase in long distance rates. I believe we are already paying very high rates for the service we get and I agree with the CRTC decision to deny the request and inform Bell that they will consider no further requests until the fall of 1985.

Queen's Park Report

The Treasurer's 1984 Budget confirms the fears of all members of the province's education system. The Treasurer has conveniently ignored the truth, that for a decade, this government has forced municipalities and local ratepayers to pay an ever increasing portion of education costs. Although the Premier, in his last year as Minister of Education, promised to keep the province's share of this cost at the 60 percent level, the provincial average share has now sunk to 48.5 percent.

Given the Treasurer's expressed concern for "visibility" of school board spending, it is equally appropriate that taxpayers, on their annual tax bills, be informed of the level of provincial support to education in their municipality. I question the willingness of the Treasurer to permit public scrutiny of the province, although he would willingly have taxpayers closely examine a local school board.

The reality of this budget is further cuts to education.

The $450 million promised over three years for youth training in the province - whether real or merely recycled - will in no way remedy the underlying problem. This government must be prepared to support the efforts of boards and teachers to help the vast majority of students off the transition to the world of work. Proliferation of new programs can't cover up the need for really basic provincial support for education.

Every single one of the Treasurer's ten points for youth training can, and should, be incorporated within our school system. Basic work skills, job placements, counselling, community service work programs, subsidized on-the-job training, youth venture capital funds and part-time employment programs are all programs delivered in some school somewhere in Ontario. Increasing these initiatives, and extending these programs - and other successful school-to-work innovations - could readily be accomplished within our schools.

The experience, the ability and the commitment all exist in our teachers, principals and school board members.

The Treasurer does not want to spend any more money in the schools. It appears he is naive in his belief that declining enrolments quickly yield declining costs of education. This is simply not true. On the contrary, declining enrolments, in many respects, drive up the cost of education.

Only teacher salary increases are being kept to levels at or below inflation. The Education Price Index for Ontario (non-salary items) has been steadily increasing. Non-salary increases continue at double digit rates. Hydro rates will be increasing by 9.1 percent in 1985. The Treasurer continues to impose retail sales tax on most Board purchases of supplies and services. These are all expenses over which the school boards have absolutely no control.

Rising education costs have been greatly aggravated by policies of the Ministry of Education. The Ontario Public School Trustees Association has identified one of the two major problems to be the constant introduction of changes by the Ministry of Education. Their advice to their members is "Be suspicious!"

The legislated demands of special education, and the new Intermediate and Senior level curriculum, OSIS, are piling heavy, new expenses on school boards. There is no corresponding increase in provincial support for these new demands. Clearly, we have a case of the province taking credit - and control - and local boards getting the responsibility and the blame.

All of these realities have been lost on the Treasurer. He does not know and does not care to address the critical problems of education in this province and there is no reason to believe the Minister of Education has made any effort to enlighten his ignorance of the true state of education in this province.

The ad valorem gasoline tax rip-off continues and this week marks the third anniversary of the Davis Tax, and when you fill up your tank, just remember that 20 percent of the price of every litre you pay goes to the Province of Ontario as tax.

While the Treasurer states that his new budget contains no tax increases for consumers, he fails to mention that Ontario's lingering ad valorem tax grab continues to rise while ripping off consumers and adding to energy costs. This unwarranted tax grab is expected to give the government a windfall profit of $976 million next year, up by some $44 million from last year.

In the May 1981 Budget, the government introduced the new ad valorem method of taxation of gasoline, tobacco and alcohol. By this action the Ontario Government gave up on the fight against inflation. Instead, it is profiteering from it and with the escalating tax-take adjusted four times a year, has joined the forces driving up inflation. In short, the Davis Government now has a vested interest in oil price increases. The latest ad valorem tax imposed last April resulted in 7.6 cents for every litre of regular gasoline going to provincial coffers.

Never again will the government need to go to the people for an increase in the provincial take on a litre of gasoline. Instead, it has imposed "built-in" increases which will take effect automatically with every rise in price.

If the government was honest, perhaps, just as gasoline prices are being adjusted upward on weekends as motorists head to the cottage, a little sign should be hung on every gas pump in the province saying, 20 percent of the price of this litre of gasoline is being paid by you to the Province of Ontario.

More letters

To The Editor:

I would like to respond to a remark which appeared in Creighton Feir's column last week, and clarify a point.

The farming community in and around the village of Haliburton have been extremely well served by the Veterinary Services Program and the vet under contract to that program, Dr. Peter Bennett.

The program is administered jointly through the Ministry of Agriculture and Food and a local committee comprised of area livestock owners.

Any effort to jeopardize the program or discredit its viability would be a serious detriment to Haliburton livestock producers and the economic realities of farming in Haliburton County.

Sincerely,

Ernest Hills

To many of us, the term wilderness usually involves images of boreal forests. But to thousands of Toronto area residents, wilderness begins at the foot of Leslie Street in the heart of an industrial section of downtown, where the four kilometre long Leslie Street Spit winds out into Lake Ontario.

The landscape is of recent origin, built up by almost four million truck loads of fill over the past

Local squash club holds tournament

Dave Willis and Lyn Winans outpointed every opponent they faced to capture the men's and ladies' 'A' titles of the Haliburton squash club's championship tournament.

A series of elimination matches began Friday night, with the finals decided late Saturday afternoon.

Willis met Ken Rydman in what proved to be an extremely well played and close final match. Five games were needed to decide the title, with Willis gaining the edge, and the trophy, on the strength of a 10-9 victory in the tie breaker.

Lyn Winans captured the ladies' 'A' title with three straight victories over her opponent in the final, Marilyn Mighton.

The men's 'B' title went to Eric Dunn, who defeated Kelly Mitchell in the consolation round. Mitchell captured the men's 'C' trophy.

The ladies' 'B' trophy went to Kim Stamp, who defeated Joan McKay in the final match.

Chris Bishop captured the men's 'D' trophy by defeating Falk Fluegel in the final.

The club championship tournament brought the season to a close for local squash players.

Trophies were presented at a dinner and dance at the club Saturday evening.

League play will resume next fall.

Six HHSS athletes advance to finals

Six female athletes from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School have qualified for the provincial track and field championships this weekend in Etobicoke. It is the best performance ever for the HHSS team, which in past years has never sent more than one person to the provincial level of competition.

The six girls earned the right to advance to the provincial championships by placing in the top three at the eastern Ontario regional meet at Ottawa's Terry Fox Centre last week.

Lesley Tashlin qualified in four events. She finished second in the 80 metre hurdles, and second in the 400 metre distance. She also qualified as a member of the Midget girls 400 metre relay team, which finished first in the event at the Eastern Ontario regional meet. Other members of the team are Lori-Anne Duguay, Lisa Sisson and Lindsey Tashlin.

Marla MacNaull qualified for Ontario finals for the second year in a row. She finished third in the senior girls 400 metre race.

HHSS also qualified its open girls 1600 metre relay team, which came in second at Ottawa. Team members are Lesley Tashlin, Lindsey Tashlin, Heidi Tashlin and Marla MacNaull.

The Ontario finals will feature the top 24 competitors in each event from across the province.

Coaches Bob Colliver and Paul Morissette will accompany the team to the two day Etobicoke meet, which gets underway on Friday.

Soccer team loses

Dixie Lee now tied with Centennial

By JIM MILNE

The Dixie Lee soccer team provided Bracebridge Centennials with their first win of the season last Sunday in Bracebridge. The Haliburton team scored in the first minute of the game when Mike Hatkoski outraced the Bracebridge goalie to a loose ball. There was a collision and their goalie had to be replaced but that was also the last Haliburton goal.

Near the end of the first half Centennials scored on a header sent back into the corner from a cross. Midway through the second half Centennials scored again.

The Haliburton team had many chances but little luck. Some powerful kicking by Paul Vukic kept the ball up the field. Mike Hatkoski headed the ball just past the post. Paul Milne put three corner kicks in a row into their goal area. The score remained 2-1 for Centennials.

Team members were frustrated to lose to a team that had been struggling, especially following the Haliburton win over Muskoka Sun previously. On the same previous Sunday Centennials were bombed 9-2 by Huntsville.

The Dixie Lee team now has the same record of one win and two losses as the Centennials and will play the Huntsville team next Sunday. Huntsville will remember Dixie Lee as the seventh place team who put the third place team out of the finals last year.

Dixie Lee will practise in Haliburton on Thursday and look forward to a good effort against Huntsville here next Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

Ladies' softball underway

By HELEN BURK

Last Monday the Haliburton County Ladies Softball league kicked off their 1984 season with two games being played.

In Haliburton the seniors hosted Wilberforce, who came out on top of what proved to be a very close, 15-14 game.

Wilberforce was led by Kris Storey and Kim Mumford at the plate with Kim (Flash) Mumford hitting a grand slam home run. Wilberforce also got a super game from Anne Adon who made three spectacular catches in centre field.

Also on Monday the Haliburton Juniors played in Minden against the Juniors. The Minden Juniors came out on top 7-6. Winning pitcher was Andrea Burk.

On Tuesday night the two

Minden teams played. The Dixie Lee Seniors came up with six runs in the second inning and never looked back to go on to win 15-4. They were led by Wendy Gough who hit two triples and a double. Liz Baker and Barb Winn also had a good night at the plate. Anne Hewson went all the way on the mound and picked up her first win of the year. Cheryl Dillon took the loss.

Also on Tuesday West Guilford hosted the Haliburton Seniors but the game had to be called because of darkness.

Wednesday the Minden Seniors played in Haliburton against the Juniors. The Minden Seniors got three runs in the second and four in the fourth on timely hits by Jane Symonds and Wendy

Northern Lights

By VIRGINIA MUENZEL

A couple of weeks ago, when the hydro was off, and I couldn't vacuum, or watch TV, or turn on a faucet, or play the organ, and the clocks were all wrong, I got to thinking about the Amish people. While we were in Buffalo, we took a side trip one day, to the Conewongo Valley, to see my favourite aunt. The trip takes you through a large Amish settlement. Several times, we were forced to slow down for their quaint horses and buggies. We always enjoy seeing them, however, because the occupants are inevitably smiling and waving a greeting to all who pass by.

I know they are often ridiculed and thought to be backward and out of the mainstream of life. But when you stop to think about it, maybe they are smarter than we. They don't use electricity and they don't drive cars. It might take them a bit longer to get where they're going, but for one thing, they have more time to appreciate the view. Secondly, you can bet that even the high price of oats is cheaper than a car, the gas, the upkeep, and the insurance.

The Amish also don't give a hoot about how much it's costing to repair and maintain those confounded nuclear power plants. All they need is a bit of wind, and fit healthy bodies to do all the things we let electricity do for us. Plus, a lot of games and physical activity to occupy their spare time, instead of a box with images that as often as not, disturb the heck out of us.

You won't find a phone amongst the Amish. That sounds mighty inconvenient, but then, you won't find any lack of communication either. The conversations are eye to eye. Their sabbath prayer meetings aren't sermons, but mutual talks about life and its priorities. They are good, close neighbours too. If one family's barn should burn down, on the next working day, Amish friends come from all around them, armed with hammers, nails, and building materials. Before you know it, a new barn is rising. It will be finished before the friends leave for the last time.

Perhaps an Amish child will never be a computer genius. But then they are still learning some things which our fast paced lives seem to have left behind. Like "Love thy neighbour as thyself", and "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you", and "Judge not, lest ye be judged yourselves", and "As ye do unto the least of mine, ye do unto me".

That's what I call getting down to basics.

Senior League

Well readers, we have come to the end of this long holiday. I don't know of too much that happened, for I have been away. I spent the holiday in Cobourg with our family, which of course we are always glad to see. The country is so lovely now, the trees almost leafed out. Although, I'm crippled up a bit, I can still get about. I will try and tell you what has happened here at Hyland Crest, different residents have been having special guests. Millie Wood had her family come with her to dine. She said that there was somebody coming and going, almost all the time.

Margret Sisson slipped and fell on the bathroom floor. She didn't break any bones, but is awfully stiff and sore.

Rev. Ward Taylor, from

Haliburton's Full Gospel Lighthouse, had a very interesting service in the chapel on May 22. We thank you both for coming, for Fred Ballard came with music to play.

Tuesday afternoon instead of playing the quiz game, which we usually do, Doris showed us three movies, "Geronimo Jones", "Sweet as a Nut", and "The Sixty Seventh Tatoo".

Tuesday the Watson and Smith musicians came with music to play. They entertained us in fine style and we had a jolly time.

Oh yes, and while I write this letter we have Winnie Johnston down in bed, but now she's feeling better.

Our attendance down at fun and fitness seems to be getting fewer. The game we played Wednesday morning was won by Chris Precour.

Dear Yvonne, it was so good to almost hear your voice and your poem about your trip abroad with your father Walter Noice. You surely have the touch, Yvonne, with the pen. It is so nice to safely have you back with us again.

The dandelions are a great crop this year, all down the line. I asked Doris Robertson if she ever made dandelion wine. She said "Yes, I did but I only got a sip, for when I got it bottled it all blew up."

Our hard working ladies just never quit. They have another quilt set up and are working on it.

We have Jessie Walters back from the hospital. She has been having trouble with her eye. I don't know the trouble, I think it is a sty.

We have a new resident, moved in just next door. We lived near her and her parents many years before. Edna Cowen is her name, we're sure she'll like it here and are very glad she came.

The ACW ladies came all the way from Wilberforce this Thursday afternoon. To thank them for coming we played them some really lively tunes. They served soft drinks, milk, tea, coffee, cakes, cookies and nice sandwiches galore. They served it so willingly, what could we ask for more.

We would like to thank the members of the Kinette club, we don't know their names, for supplying all the new material for playing the bingo games.

Did you know...that the Ministry of Natural Resources offers two types of forestry services to private landowners? The first is the Forestry Advisory Service which is provided free of charge to farmers and other woodland owners who request it. The program is aimed at managing woodlands for quality logs, fence posts, maple syrup, recreation, wildlife habitat, protection against floods and soil erosion and of water supplies. Your Ministry forester will plan for an area to be planted, mark trees to be cut, contact timber buyers, plan windbreaks and inspect woodlands and write forestry recommendations to the guide owner.

The second is the Woodlands Improvement Act Forestry Assistance Service where the Ministry may enter into agreements with landowners to plant trees on their properties and improve their woodlands. They will analyze soil, consider the owner's objectives, advise on tree species, prepare the work and plant the trees. The landowner must pay for the trees and protect the growing timber.

Please keep in mind that your County Information Centre is here to help people of all ages by answering your questions regarding social, health, governmental and environmental subjects or by quickly referring you to the proper resource. We are located in the Drag River Municipal Building (across from Emmerson Lumber) in Haliburton and we are open Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Veterinarian's life a hectic but rewarding one

Laurie Brown has come back to the area to establish a much needed clinic for animals

By ELIZABETH CHURCH
Staff Reporter

Haliburton has a new vet, yet she's someone returning to familiar surroundings. "It's home," says Laurie Brown, standing in the examining room of her new clinic in Haliburton. "I always thought I'd like to come back."

Brown, who grew up in Minden and attended local schools, left Haliburton to study at the University of Guelph where she spent seven years. "Becoming a vet takes six years now, but when I went it was two years of general courses, one year of pre-vet and four years of vet courses," Brown explains. Now, with her education and the experience she gained working for a practice north of Toronto, Brown has returned to Haliburton to do what she has always wanted to do, look after animals.

Since early spring, Laurie Brown has been kept busy setting up her clinic west of Haliburton in the new Dysart industrial park. The work required to get things to order, however, has not stopped her from tending to local animals. Brown has spent these past months working out of her van and treating animals in their owners' homes. "I was doing whatever I could," she says, "We moved into the building in February, but we've only been open for surgery for two weeks."

Now that things are in place, however, Brown says she still plans to continue making housecalls. Although some vets, like most doctors, find it impractical to travel to their patients, Brown finds these housecalls often just as convenient as seeing animals in her office. If someone has several cats, Brown points out, it's easier to go to them to give them their shots, than to treat them in the clinic. With large animals, she says, there's really no other choice than to travel to area farms. Just the same, housecalls in a community such as Haliburton can mean a great deal of time spent on the road. But because she knows Haliburton so well, Brown says she doesn't mind the extra time she spends behind the wheel. "It's nice to be outside," she adds.

Hectic days

Even though Brown enjoys the chances she gets to go out and visit her patients, she also admits that things can get hectic. "There's no such thing as an average day. Either I'm doing nothing or I'm running around in circles. One day it gets cold, and the next day it seems like every cow in the county has pneumonia."

A working day for Brown can last from six a.m.

Laurie Brown listens to a patient's heartbeat at her new clinic to midnight or, in some cases, even longer, such as the night she answered three calls for dogs with porcupine quills and got home at three in the morning. "I don't think it was the same porcupine," she laughs.

Brown's practice has grown quickly in the few months that she's been back. She attributes her success to demand, rather than her local upbringing. "Anyone who set up here would have done well," she says, although she adds that some people do bring their pets to her because they went to school with her, or because they know her family. Brown does feel, however, that her Haliburton background has made a difference in the number of farm calls she receives. "It would be hopeless for a female from the city to try and do farm calls," she says. Brown says farmers are more willing to call her because they know her family and realize that she grew up around farms and large animals, even though her parents did not own a farm themselves. "I've had a horse all my life," she explains, adding that people who know her are usually aware of her experience in handling large animals.

While Brown sees the problems that an unknown woman veterinarian might have being accepted by local farmers, she says she is not aware of any problems with being a woman vet. If there is a problem, she says it is with the owners rather than with herself. "Usually," Brown explains, "if people don't like the fact that I'm a woman, they don't bother to call. If people do call me and I do a good job, I'm going to get called back. People have to see how I work. If they don't, they can't judge me," she says.

The ratio of men to women graduating from veterinary school is fairly even, Brown points out. In this year's class, she notes, there are actually more women than men.

"A woman veterinarian might have been unusual before, but over the last ten years that's changed," Brown says.

A risky business

Handling animals, especially large, sick ones, is not always an easy job. Brown has been bumped, kicked and bruised, and has even suffered a slight fracture to her pelvis during the course of her work. Brown sees these injuries from the animals she is trying to cure as inevitable.

"Being a vet is like driving a car," she says, "there are certain risks involved." At least with

Rotary club marks four decades of service

Hundreds of thousands of dollars raised, put back into many community projects

Haliburton's Rotary Club held a special celebration dinner last Thursday to mark four decades of service to the community. Fittingly, club members and guests gathered at Wig-A-Mog Inn where 40 years to the day earlier, the club received its charter from the then District governor, H.E. Rice of Huntsville. In the intervening years, the Haliburton Rotary Club has been involved in scores of community projects, some of them, like Rotary Beach and the museum, very visible, others less public but no less important.

Many of those projects were recalled during the formal part of the evening, when club members and invited guests took their turns at the podium. Among those who were on hand for the event were District Governor Emil Neiminen and guest speaker John Spragge, vice president of programming for CFRB radio in Toronto. Also in attendance were 29 of the 40 men who have been president of the local club including Ron Curry, who assumed the office when the club was formed.

Ron Curry and Rea Stinson, who also was present last Thursday, are the only surviving charter members of the Haliburton Rotary Club. Other men who were members of the club in its first year were Bert Braden, Tom Barrow, Charles Haggan, Art Gilliam, W.O. Bailey, Clayt. Hodgson, Jack Robertson, Hugh Burke, W.R. Curry, Ray Archer, Ed. Hunter, George Earle, Fred Jones and Merv. Robertson. Harold Herlihey joined the club in September, 1945 and is still an active member. Others who joined the club in its early years include Glenn Austin in February,

The first offer to purchase property in front of the high school for a public park was made by the club in 1957, but it was not until 1961 that the matter was finally concluded and Sam Slick Park was created. Other club activities in 1957 included the hiring of a swimming instructor for Rotary Beach and the purchase of the 'lookout' property above the village.

In 1958 the club donated $220 to the Dysart recreation committee and held yet another cottage draw.

Haliburton got one of its most popular tourist attractions in 1959 with the help of the Rotary Club, which provided $1200 for the installation, painting and cleaning of the historic steam locomotive adjacent to Haliburton high school. A $200 scholarship also was established in that year, and meetings moved from the hotel to the United Church hall, where they continue to be held today. Meal prices had risen to $1.50 by 1959.

In 1960 the first 'Fred Jones Memorial Award' was presented in memory of a very active Rotarian.

The year 1961 was highlighted by the finalization of the Sam Slick Park purchase.

In 1962, a colour photo contest was held in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce Festival of Colour, a loan of $500 was made to the Haliburton County Old Boys Education Foundation, and Rotary Beach was once again upgraded.

The years 1964 and 1965 were marked by activities such as the expenditure of up to $1400 to publish 5000 copies of a history of Haliburton, a donation of $2000 toward the new community centre, a $100 donation to a retarded children's summer camp near Wilberforce, and the first Millionaires Night, another fund raising activity which has become an annual event.

In 1965 the club provided $100 toward the cost of X-ray equipment for a hospital in India, donated $2500 for the concrete floor of the new arena, and gave a $200 grant to the newly formed figure skating club in the community.

The public library benefitted from the club's generosity in 1966, receiving $500. As well, a storage shed was purchased on Station Street.

Canada's Centennial year saw the club spend

1946, Harry Bishop in October, 1946, Harold Black in February, 1947, Lester Walling in October, 1947, and Cliff Dawson, in September, 1955.

Anniversary celebration organizer Gerry Dawson reminded the gathering of some of the highlights of club activities over the years.

Less than three months after the club was presented with its charter, the first Rotary summer carnival had been organized. A 22 feet by 26 feet cottage was raffled off, beginning a tradition of raising funds by giving local people a chance to win major prizes. Tickets for that first draw sold for 35 cents, or three tickets for a dollar.

In its first years, the club met in the Grand Central Hotel on main street, which is now a Stedman's outlet. Inflation hit quickly, but not with the impact of rising prices today. By 1945, meal prices for the club's weekly meeting had to be raised from 55 cents to 65 cents, subject to approval from the War Time Prices and Trade Board. In that year the club made donations to Girl Guides, an eye clinic, and hockey and skating rinks in Minden and Wilberforce.

In 1946 the Haliburton club sponsored the sale of Christmas Seals, gave financial assistance to the town band, and helped pay the nursing costs for a child in Minden.

The year 1947 saw the purchase of park property on Head Lake, now known as Rotary Beach, as well as the purchase of an ambulance for the Red Cross Society of Toronto.

In 1948 the club held its first auction at the summer carnival, a fund raising activity which continued to be popular for a number of years.

By 1949 the club had raised $2000 for the purchase of an X-ray machine for the local Red Cross hospital.

In 1950 the first draw for a new car was held, and the club organized a children's Christmas party for the first time. It has since become an annual event, to the delight of hundreds of local youngsters.

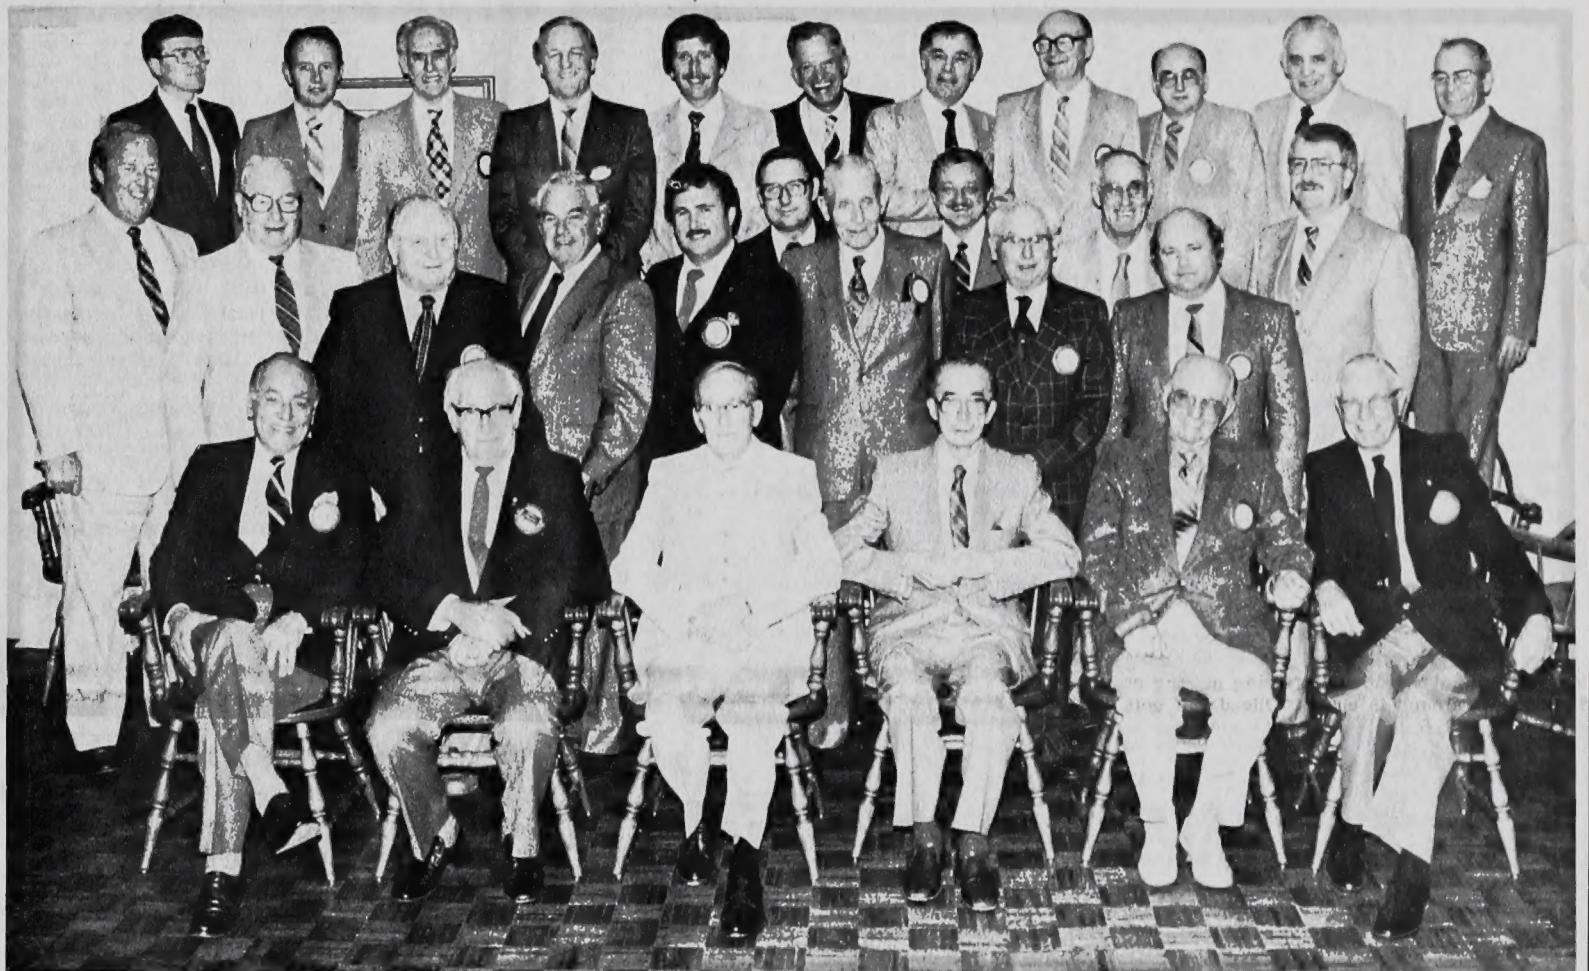

The Rotary Beach development was improved by the club in 1951 and change rooms were added. A resuscitator also was purchased in that year.

Red Cross swimming lessons were held at the beach for the first time in 1952 under club sponsorship. In 1953, the club paid the salary of a recreation director for one month, and donated $100 to the Legion Poppy fund.

In 1954 the club donated money to the local high school for the purchase of musical instruments, and to the Monmouth Recreation Centre.

The most important event of 1955 for the club was the transfer of the beach property to the Municipality of Dysart et al. In that year the club also raffled off a boat and motor, donated $100 to the Haliburton Red Cross, and contributed more than $900 toward the treatment of a child in Toronto's Sick Children's Hospital.

In 1956 the club provided money which enabled the county band to purchase new uniforms.

an animal, Brown notes, if it seems like there is going to be a fight she can always tranquilize it and reduce the risks.

Despite the occasional kick and scratch, Brown says animals usually accept what she is doing. It is the owners of the sick animals who are often the most upset by their pets' illness. Though Brown says she has not seen many cases of animal abuse, she does see many instances of people who rush their pets to her for things that are not that serious. "I guess it's a lot like parents with a baby," she says, "owners are usually more concerned when their pets get sick than when they are sick themselves." Brown says this concern is usually because people are not really sure what to do when their pet becomes ill. Once owners know why their pet is acting unusual or looking tired, they are generally very good at caring for them and carrying out the treatment that she prescribes.

Traumatic

Telling an owner that his pet is seriously ill is often one of the most difficult parts of a veterinarian's job. Pets are part of a family, Brown explains. If a cat or dog has a terminal illness, the prognosis can be very traumatic for its owner to deal with, especially if a close relative has also died recently. In such cases, Brown must take into consideration not only what is best for the animal, but also what is best for the people involved. Brown points out that in this respect, there is a big difference between large and small animals. For a farmer, the health of an animal is a more practical matter. If a pig is sick, but could be kept alive with expensive drugs, it's not worth it for a farmer to pay for the treatment, she explains. "With small animals," says Brown, "there's a greater opportunity to try to preserve life."

Although Brown says she prefers dealing with large animals, she adds that she finds this aspect of treating her smaller patients more challenging and therefore very attractive.

In addition to keeping pets alive for their owners, Brown also says she finds it hard to 'put down' a nice dog or cat that nobody wants. "It's not fair," she explains. Consequently, both of her pets, a dog and a 14 year old cat, are orphans that she decided to take home.

"That's usually the case with most vets," she says, smiling. "I have to be careful or I'd have everything at home."

25 years. Yet despite its artificial beginnings, the evolution of this landfill site as natural habitat has been spectacular. In the short space of ten years, it has been transformed from a hunk of raw rubble into a well vegetated area, with an amazing abundance of animal life. Though dominated for now by the world's largest colony of Ring-Billed Gulls, the Spit's shallow bays and willow thickets have drawn two hundred species of birds, including Hudsonian Godwits, three species of phalaropes, Horned Larks and Ringed-Necked Pheasants. For the botanists, there are more than 150 species of plants to be seen, including two considered rare in Canada: Englemann's Umbrella Sedge and fragrant Cyperus.

Originally designed as part of an enlarged harbour, which later proved unneeded, the Spit has become instead the scene of a high profile tug-of-war between user groups who have different dreams of its future. Naturalists, cyclists and joggers, who enjoy it virtually year round, want the Spit to continue its uncharted course of biological development as an aquatic park. Recreational boaters and ambitious civic officials are keen to exploit the Spit for its real estate potential and see it as a prime construction site.

The climax of this struggle is now approaching as the Metro Toronto and Region Conservation Authority prepares to hold public meetings and develop a master plan. It's not coming a minute too soon. Car traffic and boating facilities have already gained a secure foothold on the headland in the absence of a plan and in the face of three public opinion surveys which revealed majority support for leaving the area to grow wild.

Unfortunately, the very same Conservation Authority which is to sort out the conflicting demands, has also entertained proposals which envision the Spit as a veritable Coney Island. But it will do well to remember the story of the Spadina Expressway before adopting them. This is not a minor skirmish between "Birders and Boaters". It is a more fundamental issue of "People and Cars". And the Leslie Street Spit is widely recognized as a unique opportunity to recoup some of the ground we have lost to machines. Left as an urban wilderness, it would offer a far more rare and refreshing experience to any and all, than is available within most city limits. As the thriving organization called Friends of the Spit has shown, this opportunity must not and will not slip by unnoticed.

Would you believe that Thomas Jefferson, credited with introducing spaghetti, french fries, and a number of other foods to America, was also the first to use vanilla as a flavouring agent? During the last 200 years, vanilla has become one of the most popular confectionery flavourings in the United States. It is widely used in candies, baked goods, ice cream, carbonated beverages and perfume.

That's all for this week. I hope to see you all next week.

Agricultural News

By MARK LEAHY, Farm Management Specialist

Troubleshoot Your Operation
With low returns in the swine industry at the present time, many producers are looking at ways to improve efficiency.

Identifying and improving the most poorly managed aspect of a business can go a long way in increasing efficiency and net profit.

Good management in the feeder barn will not compensate for a small litter size at farrowing time.

How does a farm operator measure management levels in different parts of the farm business?

One method is by troubleshooting the operation. This involves doing a complete analysis. The performance results from the analysis are compared with accepted levels in Ontario. For example, if a producer's average live litter size is seven, this in an indication that improved management is required.

Accurate and up-to-date records are necessary to troubleshoot an operation. Average number of pigs born alive, death loss, number weaned per litter and feed consumption are just a few of the management areas to be evaluated.

With low profit margins, pork producers need to consider the total farm operation.

By analyzing the management level on a regular basis, improvements or setbacks quickly show up.

Comparisons can be made from one year to another.

Information on important management areas and assistance in troubleshooting your operation are available from the Lindsay Agricultural Office.

The first week of May saw sorrow within the family. My husband's brother Don lost his mother-in-law very suddenly on May 1. Zella Endicott had no family left except her late daughter's husband, Don Lake, and Don's three children, so Don was more of a son than a son-in-law. She was found dead in her cottage May 1. Two days later, Don died very suddenly. He was at the side of Zella's casket when he suffered a brain hemorrhage and died on Thursday, May 3, the very afternoon that his mother-in-law was being buried. Don's funeral on May 5 was just two weeks before his daughter Joanne's wedding. Needless to say, it was a very sorrowful way to begin the month of May.

Trent Severn News

By May 24 the Trent-Severn lakes in Haliburton and Peterborough Counties reached an average of 94.9% full. This was a gain of 2% on the week and puts these lakes within 0.5% of the 10-year average for the date.

Only minor changes had been required to the Otonabee River flow leaving the Kawarthas, from last Friday, May 18 to Tuesday, May 22. Following this day the flow was reduced again to reach about 51 cubic metres per second by Friday, May 25. The Kawartha levels have been holding steady or in a gentle decline despite a small rain at mid-week. A surplus of seven to 10 cm. exists on the lower ones as usual for this time of year.

Most Haliburton lakes are reaching their full levels so that more flow will soon be available depending upon how much rain occurs. This should contribute to higher levels along river reaches especially for lakes between Eagle and Boshkung and for Shadow and Silver Lakes north of Coboconk.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC REGARDING FOREST MANAGEMENT ON CROWN LANDS

The Ministry of Natural Resources has prepared a draft forest management plan for Crown lands of the Minden District for the period ending in the year 2000. The timber on designated areas of Crown land is grown and harvested on a sustained yield basis to provide employment and forest products for Ontario's economy.

The forest management plan is a document which provides background information on the nature of the local forests and on the factors affecting forest management within them. It also provides a working strategy whereby the forestry objectives of the Ministry of Natural Resources might best be realized within the district. The forest management plan should not be confused with the more specific operating plan and timber licensing plan whose preparation was announced in mid-March of this year.

Persons and organizations who wish to review and comment on this plan prior to its approval may do so up to and including June 29, 1984 by contacting the District Manager, Ministry of Natural Resources, Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0, telephone 286-1521.

Kinmount Korner

By MILLIE MOSS

The Kinvale Restaurant has been sold and to the past proprietors, the Franzen family, may good luck follow you in whatever you do. Thank you Mrs. Franzen and your staff for a job well done in all your help with our Meals on Wheels and Wheels to Meals. The new owners who will be starting business on Friday, June 1 are Wayne Rolfe of Kinmount, whom I'm sure most of you already know. Wayne's brother-in-law, Jerry Van Zeyl is the other half of the partnership. They're two very nice young men. Jerry, who has had some five years experience in restaurant work behind him when he worked with his family who ran the Van Zeyl Restaurant in Minden for some years, has relocated from Lindsay and will reside in an apartment above the restaurant. Watch for the new menu featuring basically Canadian cuisine with special features from time to time. The establishment, situated directly across the street from the Kinmount Post Office, will continue under its former name, the Kinvale Restaurant and it is hoped the boys will prosper and be happy in their new venture for many years to come. Congratulations and best wishes Wayne and Jerry.

Happy birthday to Bill Stata on May 24.

St. Patrick's C.W.L. card party results for Tuesday, May 22: ladies' high, Lil Porter, ladies' low, Ruby Holbrook; men's high, Florence Schlosser; men's low, Gladys Wruth; lone hands, Lyle Anderson. There were seven tables of players.

A horticultural meeting of the executive was held at the home of president Mary Hartin last Wednesday evening and a number of upcoming events were discussed. We will be out in number very soon preparing the local flowerbeds and made pans for our coming shows. We are looking for new members so if you'd care to join and have a lot of fun call any of the present members. I can be reached at 488-2353.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill LaLonde and Mr. and Mrs. McDonald were recent guests of Gord and Lil Taylor at Norland. They had worked together for some time, at Simpson's so they had lots of news to catch up on. Everyone was pleased to hear that a son of Bill LaLonde's is in police training at Aylmer.

I was sorry to hear Mike Cain, Kay Allen, Gord Taylor, Vi Cooke, E. Guillemain, Bill Boland, to name but a few, are on the sick list, both at home and in hospital.

Mrs. Kay Allen has been a very busy lady of late. She enjoyed the company of daughters, Frances McGillen and Rose Aldrich who took her for dinner at Kinvale Restaurant for Mother's Day. Then Kay had a second treat of son Paul Allen, along with his wife and family, for a visit over the holiday weekend.

Branch #441, Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary were busy recently preparing supper for the Scottish Rites. Everyone enjoyed the meal and went home full and happy.

It was nice to see Ed Byrnes back home from Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

If you'd like to send Vi Cooke a card or visit awhile, she's in Civic Hospital in Peterborough following recent major surgery.

Our sincere sympathy to June Cooper, all the family and friends of June's sister who died so suddenly a week ago.

Following a valiant fight, Helen Jones died in Oshawa General Hospital on Thursday, May 24. Funeral arrangements were from Armstrong Funeral Home on King St. in Oshawa with service on Monday, May 28 at 1:00 p.m. We girls will certainly miss our "craft and things" get together with Helen, at her house. I certainly will miss our times of kidding around. Rest in peace Helen Jones, maybe someday they'll find the cure.

Christmas was celebrated at Dora and Bill Lilley's house on Saturday, May 19 when they enjoyed the company of long time friends John and Marion Stenaford of Beeton. Later, Dora and Bill attended the smorgasbord dinner put on by the Anglican ladies at Burnt River. Dora really praised you ladies over there.

Congratulations to Al Young of Kinmount on his win of $26 in the Kinmount Legion 50/50 draw last Saturday.

A very happy birthday, the 70th, to Earl Hartin of Kinmount on May 22. A family get together helped Earl celebrate his day at his home.

Marion Sweetland was in Toronto recently for an eye check up.

Be on the lookout for the big rug sale at Tom Wilson's on Highway 121, across the road from the lumber yard, on June 1. If you're in the market for some home decorating walk in and have a look. We recently had cause to have our floors redone and are very pleased with the outcome.

It is nice to see so many familiar faces back around town, some regulars returning from the warmer climates and of course our summer residents. Have a safe and happy holiday.

Many of our people are very busy right now planting. I haven't even started yet. It kind of puts on off when you still get the odd night when it's frosty and then pouring rain. Oh well, it has to get better soon I hope.

As most of you know, I am responsible for seeing that the Post Office premises are kept neat and tidy and my helper and I really do work at it so it was very disheartening last Thursday morning to arrive and find the young people, waiting for the school bus to take them to Fenelon Falls, standing amid stinking garbage that was strewn from Scott's parking lot, right across the Post Office frontage and over to the Fish 'n' Chip wagon. I realize there is an excess of garbage following a long weekend but I do think there should be some rules as to how trash is left on the street and said rules enforced. One lady asked me if I thought it was animals or people and with the mood I was in at that point I must have snapped because I said, "is there a difference?" If people cared enough they'd put garbage where it belongs, and the animals and birds too I might add wouldn't or couldn't get at it. The large pile at the front of the Post Office, and, I'm sure, others around town, were placed so that you could drop your empty cigarette packages, candy wraps, etc. and help keep our pretty town clean, not, I repeat, not, for people to bring week's supplies of trash and fill the pails up at one shot and then just lay the rest of the stuff on the ground for days before it's picked up. Let's be proud of our 200 year old Ontario and have visitors go home talking of how clean and tidy we are. I'm afraid I'll arrive at the Post Office one morning and find garbage has been dumped in the middle of the road. One of our road men told me last Friday that he and his crew had to do just that, clean up garbage, about three bags of it, off the highway.

Now that I've got that off my chest, stay well and happy, read the Echo and remember - sometimes good manners consist in letting somebody tell you what you already know.

A free immunization clinic for adults and children will be held at Dorset Public School on June 6 from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. by the Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit. Immunization will be available for measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio. Adults are reminded they require a polio booster every five years and a tetanus booster every 10 years.

We would like to wish a very happy birthday to Miss Feam Avery of Paint Lake. Feam turned 13 on May 25.

A group from the Dorset Senior Club had an enjoyable outing last Friday when they attended the retirement luncheon for Mrs. Marie Wallace at the PineStone Inn between Minden and Haliburton. Mrs. Wallace was co-ordinator for the Haliburton Home Support Services, since its inception five years ago. She is being replaced by Mrs. Donna Bailey, who will be remembered locally, having lived in Dorset when her husband taught school here 11 years ago. Mrs. Wallace, whose husband will be on a sabbatical after school closes, is planning a world trip. She was presented with a plaque and a money gift and was lauded for her hard work and contribution to the success of the Support Service, which has snowballed into a very successful enterprise and has extended into many of the surrounding villages with guidelines for Meals on Wheels, Wheels to Meals and many other services.

"Spread some sunshine into other people's lives and you are bound to retain some in your own."

Was it a moose calf or a baby deer? A group of us were driving down Highway 35 toward Carnarvon when we saw what looked like a very large dog trotting along beside the road and as we were wondering which way it was going to go, it, of course turned to cross the road in front of the car. The capable driver applied the brakes and the occupants all echoed each other with, Oh - it's a deer. It was a small animal and grayish brown in colour. When we arrived at our destination another carload who had followed us said they had seen a moose. Now we aren't sure what we saw. Not being zoologists or too well versed in the local fauna, especially in its youthful stage, I guess we will never know. Was it a moose or was it a deer?

We would like to express the sympathy of the community to Don Lillow and his family in the loss of his mother, Zuella Hicks, of Tillsonburg. Mrs. Hicks died on May 15 in her 93rd year. She had been ill for some time.

The Anglican Church ladies are holding a rummage sale in the Sunday School room on Monday, May 28 at 7 p.m. There will be a nearly new table and some great bargains. Everyone is welcome.

The Dorset Community Centre Committee is starting their summer fund raising program with the raffle of a 14 foot fibreglass canoe, donated by Clayton's General Store. The tickets are $1 each or six for $5 and are on sale at the local places of Mabel Hunter's surprise birthday celebration recently was a happy occasion. Besides all her family, her mother, Mrs. Mintz, and sister, Gladys, and Aldridge Hunter were present. Continued health and happiness are wished you, Mabel, by your many friends.

Mrs. Mintz spent a few days with her daughter, Gladys, and son-in-law, Aldridge Hunter. While she had not been well for a few days, she was much improved before her return to Lindsay.

All the family of Francis and Claribel Levick spent the weekend with Claribel's parents, Mirl and Walter MacDuff.

We were pleased to see Doreen and Bill Kendall who have returned from having spent the winter months in Florida.

Ronnie Riel of Melbourne, accompanied by his son, spent the weekend with his parents, Vera and Walter Riel.

After having been closed for the winter, Chester's Place has re-opened. It has been enlarged and, no doubt, will be a popular eating place.

We were sorry to hear that Violet Cooke had undergone surgery in the Civic Hospital, Peterborough. She is doing nicely and we hope to see her home soon and able to resume her many activities.

At the Pentecostal Church last Sunday, Pastor Sauve officiated at the dedication of the little daughter of Shenley and Linda Stoughton.

Haliburton Homesteader

It's a rough, hard life, yet he sticks it
For it's what he wants to do;
And a loving wife makes an easier life
And he knows they'll see it through.
But the winter's long and bleakly cold
And the meat runs short and the 'taters old.
Then the wife falls sick and the doctor's far -
And he doubts he'll make it in his croaky, old car.
But he sets out at night, in the light of a star,
And the snowdrifts piled like an obstacle bar
May slow him down, but don't frighten him off -
And he gets there.
The summer's heat reflects from a mound of rocks
That he picked off the poor little 'tater patch.
Birds at his seed and the weeds smothered fast
The puny green leaves that came at last;
But he bent his back all the hot, dry day,
And in need of rain, as he bent would pray
For a saving rain, "Please send it today."
And it came.
So the seasons roll by, as seasons do,
And he always has a fight to manage through.
There's the heat of the sun and the winter's snow;
But the fishing's good, and the hunting's fine,
And his traps are full all down the line,
And his wife loves him still, though he's bald and gray -
And they stay.

Jean A. Frazer

What Did I Do To Deserve This?

So now with broken ankle, I
Perforce, impatient patient lie
With leg a-prop and mind a-fume
On sofa in the living room.

I who have always walked with care
Not putting foot just anywhere,
But one misstep, one helpless spin
And just look at the mess I'm in.

My friends and neighbours sympathize.
They send me cards and bake me pies.
And many come to visit me
And gape at my stupidity.

My dearest husband is so good.
He'll wash my hands and bring me food.
With not a word of fuss, not he.
All the complaining comes from me.

Three months or maybe even more,
There goes my summer out the door.
At least that's what the doctor said
And me with all those plans I'd made.

On crutches I am such a lout,
And so you see there's little doubt
The cottage won't see me till fall
For I can't use those things at all.

I'll miss my Haliburton friends.
I don't know how to make amends.
Just tell yourselves, and it is true,
This hurts me more than it does you.

Wilberforce News

By WINNIE SCHOFIELD

Mrs. May Croft celebrated her 95th birthday on May 17. Mrs. Croft is our best known and oldest senior citizen and is a fine example of self-reliance. Many cards of good wishes came in the mail for her from friends and relations. She was especially pleased with the gift of a five year diary. Through the day visitors called and among these were four of her great grandchildren - Jodi, Luke and Ben Barker, Meghan Agnew and their friends Renee and Kenton Casey. The children brought as a gift an oil lamp which will come in handy for the next hydro cut off. In the evening Mrs. Croft was entertained at the home of her son Mel Croft. Congratulations and best wishes for many more birthdays.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Ann Andrews who was highly thought of in the community. Ann was born in Cardiff Township. She became a registered nurse and lived in Willowdale with her husband Eric for 30 years. They retired to this area some years ago. Ann and Eric were two of the original members of the Monmouth Senior Citizen Club where they had much to offer in goodwill and work. Ann was a member of the Wilberforce United Church where she attended services when her health would permit. The sympathy of the community is extended to the family.

On May 17 Lynn and Craig Mumford of Harcourt welcomed a couple of newcomers to their home. These were twin girls who arrived at 2:35 and at 2:37 a.m. The babies were born at the Peterborough Hospital and have received the names of Lisa Marie and Laurie Anne. This is something to brag about for grandparents Iris and Ron Mumford of Harcourt and Velda and Bill Lewis of Beeton, Ontario.

On May 17 at 6 p.m. the Harcourt Community Chapel Girls Club, known as the Cute Chipmunks, along with the mothers of the girls, enjoyed a delicious meal planned by their leaders Nadeen Sanderson and Susan Rivers with the help of several able assistants. Following the dinner awards were presented to each of the girls, according to their accomplishments and to the effort put forth by each. A short program followed by the girls and their leaders, Nadeen and Susan. The singing was ably accompanied by Dorothy Sanderson at the piano. This is the final meeting for the 1983-84 year for the club. Before leaving everyone was invited to partake of tea and cake which Linda Robinson's Grandma had so kindly contributed, complete with the emblem of a chipmunk.

Nadeen and Susan wish to thank the ladies who so graciously donated pies or assisted in other ways.

Goat Society holds meeting

By ERNEST HILLS

On Saturday, April 28, in the Tory Hill Community Centre, the Haliburton Highlands Goat Society held their annual meeting, featuring reports from the past year, and the election of officers for the upcoming term.

The meeting was very well attended, with close to 30 voting members of the society in attendance. After reports from the secretary and treasurer, a discussion was initiated concerning proposed constitutional changes involving the expansion of the executive by one director. The motion of amendment was passed, at which time the current executive was dissolved, and nominations were accepted for individuals to fill the positions for the new term.

Elected representatives included: Sharron Greer, president; Ernest Hills, vice-president; Phyllis McHale, secretary; Barbara Chynoweth, treasurer; and the following directors, Dianna Johnson, Ken Alger, and Maurice Bradley.

After the elections followed the establishment of committees for the coming term. Again Maurice Bradley will oversee the Goat Society's participation in the county's 4H program. Barb Chynoweth and Phyllis McHale will head up our fund raising committee, while Sharron Greer and Maurice Bradley will make recommendations for a chevron marketing committee. Finally, it was decided that the executive committee as a whole will undertake the newsletter, with Barb Chynoweth handling advertising and layout.

On May 12, to the dismay of the executive committee, a very poor showing of our membership was on hand for the seminar conducted by Mrs. Holly Furber. That, despite the considerable interest expressed and the urgent need for a more informed membership.

Holly Furber is the author of the independent study program on 'dairy goats' for the University of Guelph, and is renowned as one of the foremost authorities on goats, certainly in Ontario, and likely in North America. Those in attendance enjoyed a slide presentation, accompanied by an informative discussion, with a dialogue on areas of concern or interest.

Informal was the keyword to the presentation, with considerable room for questions or input from the members. A pot-luck luncheon highlighted the friendly atmosphere to the day's proceedings, with Holly continuing to share her insights with us.

We would like to thank Holly for her patience and co-operation with our club, while expressing our pleasure in the informative and constructive material she covered. To those who could not find the time to attend, you missed an exceptional learning experience.

The day's proceedings were followed by a banquet and dance, which, although modestly attended, were 'events' in the true sense of the word, with everyone having a relaxed and fun-filled evening, making new friends and sharing the ability to laugh and enjoy. Such things are memories made of.

We would like to express our sincerest thanks to the ladies and gentlemen of the Kinmount Legion Hall for their hospitality; to Phyllis McHale and Barb Chynoweth for excelling in their preparation of the feast; to the band, Whiskey Sunrise, for their terrific music and infectious good spirits; and finally to Holly Furber, who felt so at ease with our organization, we hope you will allow Haliburton to play host again sometime soon.

Dates to remember:

Saturday, June 2, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., the Haliburton Highlands Goat Society is holding a workshop in the Kinmount Fairgrounds, with practical demonstrations of tattooing, disbudding, and many, many aspects of herd health and maintenance, in real practice with knowledgeable individuals demonstrating. A pot-luncheon is to be served.

Sunday, June 3, 2 p.m., the Gelert Community Hall, the Haliburton County Farmers' Association's farm market participants asked to gather for a final organizational meeting, prior to the opening of the farmers' market June 29.

And finally, both the Haliburton County Farmers' Association and the Haliburton Highlands Goat Society would like to express the congratulations to Bud and Paula Kirchner on their outstanding achievement contribution to agriculture, Haliburton County.

Wednesday evening. After the blessing was asked by Gwen Taylor all sat down to a luncheon of sandwiches, cake, tea and coffee. President, Ivan Hunter, welcomed the guests. These included Lillian and Frank of Clarke of Eagle Lake and Ruby and Nelson Jackman of Trooper Lake.

The minutes were read by Marjorie Madill and approved. A discussion regarding fencing the shuffleboard court and the purchase of benches followed.

Walter Baron, with his accordion, led in a sing-song which all enjoyed.

The group broke up for games of darts, carpet bowling, bridge, euchre and chatting.

A Pinch of Sand Books can be a big help in raising children

A PINCH OF SAND

By H. JEAN BROWN

The orange trees around Eustis, Florida, just north of Orlando weren't even seedlings when the town was founded in 1883. Planted much later the trees have grown with the town which calls itself the orange capital of the world. It is a pity that tree-ripened fruit is not available in Canada. The flavour is so different and so good. However the following recipes are very good even with imported fruit.

Orange Cake

3 eggs separated
¾ cup orange juice
1 tsp baking powder
1¼ cups white sugar
1½ cups flour sifted
¼ tsp salt

In a very large bowl beat egg yolks and orange juice until very foamy, a good five minutes. Gradually add the sugar then the flour, salt and baking powder. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into 10" tube pan. Bake for 40 minutes in 325° oven until top feels springy to touch. Set on rack, cool 15 minutes then invert to finish cooling. Dust with icing sugar or ice with orange icing.

Orange Pudding

2 eggs separated
1 tbslp orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
2 tbslp butter
1 tbslp lemon juice
¼ tsp salt
2 tbslp flour
¼ cup sugar

Beat egg whites very stiff, add ¼ cup sugar and salt. Set aside. Beat egg yolks, add flour, rind, melted butter, juice and ¼ cup sugar. Beat in milk, then fold in whites. Spoon into custard cups. Place in pan of hot water. Bake 350° for 35-40 minutes. Chill. This is a very old recipe from Arkansas.

No one raises babies "by-the-book" but having one trustworthy book at home can be a source of reassurance and a fount of ideas on how to entertain a bored child.

Parenting books voice commonsense ideas on which parents can base their own discussions. Have you wondered whether you're spoiling your baby? When to introduce a cup? About the pros and cons of walkers? How to help your toddler to sleep? A good parenting book can spark the discussion that leads to a workable plan for your family.

We've looked for parenting books with very specific information that is easy to read quickly (parents are busy people!). Parents need ideas on how to fold a diaper one day and how a baby learns the next. Most parents want more information on sleeping patterns, toys, nutrition, learning to talk and learning to walk as well.

We've listed the best books we've found for parents of babies and toddlers. The important point is to find the book that you feel most comfortable with, find an author whose ideas make sense to you. Here are a few of our favourites (all under $25.00):

Your Baby and Child - From Birth to Age 5, Penelope Leach, 1978, 421 pages. Excellent value, over 650 colour photographs. This practical British psychologist tells why it's impossible to "spoil" a baby, all about introducing solids, how a baby learns to crawl and how a baby learns about his world. Everything from how to fold a diaper to how to help a baby learn to talk. One of the best books on the market.

Creative Parenting - William Sears, 1982, 413 pages. Very good general book on development from prenatal to adolescence, written by a former University of Toronto professor. Discusses a wide range of parental concerns from nutrition, childhood illnesses to sleep problems and play patterns. Focuses a little less on infant learning and more from a medical standpoint.

Beyond Peek-A-Boo and Pat-A-Cake - E.M. Munger and

S.J. Bowdon, 1980, 198 pages. Month-by-month pointers that are practical, positive and funny. Written by experienced mothers. Great gift idea for new parents!

The Mother's Almanac - Marguerite Kelly and Elia Parsons, 1975, 288 pages. Chitchatty book that reads like a letter written by a close friend who's an experienced mother. Understanding discussions about how it feels to be a mother, coping strategies. Good craft ideas for toddlers.

The First Wondrous Year - by Johnson & Johnson publications, 1978, 410 pages. (The same people who make the baby powder). Well-written books with marvelous pictures of dozens of infants and parents. Great sections on playing with babies and 160 pages on physical development. The same authors publish Your Toddler, (1 and 2 years) and Your Preschooler (3 and 4 years).
- Burton White, 1975, 285 pages. Parenting advice and philosophies from a well-known child psychologist.

Norland Natter

By KELLY GRAHAM

I hope you all had a great May 24 weekend. I'm sure those of you who attended the fireworks display had a good time as they were as beautiful and vivid as ever.

Congratulations to the students at Coboconk Public School who were the visitors at two recent athletic events. At the Northern Schools track meet in Kinmount, Coboconk picked up the trophy, defeating Norland P.S., last year's winner. The northern schools softball tournament title was also captured by Coboconk P.S. Let's get moving Norland! By the way, next week I will include the medal winners at the northern schools track meet.

The mothers of the children involved in the Kids Co-op program are compiling a cookbook to be ready in about two months. They are looking for ads from local businessmen and anyone interested can contact Denise or Laura Bryant.

Attention all trappers. Gordon Bartley, president of the Minden District Trappers Association, has just informed me that as of now all trappers trapping any vacant areas must contact the Ministry of Natural Resources on the criteria required.

and daughter, Andresa, were home at Norma and Ray Sisson's on the long weekend.

Members and friends of St. Andrew's Anglican congregation enjoyed an evening of square dancing sponsored by the Anglican Young People's group last Saturday at the high school.

Another event sponsored by the Anglican Deanery of Victoria and Haliburton took place in Bobcaygeon on May 27 and people from both St. George's and St. Andrew's congregations joined the other congregations to appreciate the Gospel choir and band led by the Rev. John Phillips. A time for visiting and renewing acquaintances was provided later over coffee and refreshments.

New homes are starting to be built. Emile Duchene, Stan Sisson, and Kevin Sisson have each started a new house.
